The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

Let "Old Glory" be unfurled tomorrow.

And now Bryan remarks that this "is ten golden."

All this beautiful month of June has lacked is a snow storm.

Congressman Foster of Burlington is getting to be the winner as a commencement orator; he already has accepted three invitations in Vermont.

If, as Miss Louise Lee Harlin of Denver declares, marriage is only an incident in the life of women, then some women have several incidents in their lives.

Since the "peck-a-boo" shirt waist has been denounced by doctors and moralists, it hasn't a leg to stand on—or, perhaps more accurately, a form to cling to.

James H. Vahey did not need to warn the people in his letter to Gov. Guild that he had done the best he could for the unfortunate Tucker; the people knew it without the warning.

The venerable Senator Proctor is again able to take up his duties in the national assembly, having recovered from his recent attack of illness. As chairman of the Senate committee on agriculture his presence in Washington is needed just at this time.

His re-election conceded, Barney F. Kelley of St. Albans announces that he will not run for county sheriff again. And this after sixteen years' service! That he is giving up a good thing is shown by the crop of seven candidates that has already sprung up.

Vermont had her spasm over the administering of the death penalty. Massachusetts has just had hers. New York will have her spasm, as she has been having it for years. The Rogers, Tucker and Patrick cases show unmistakably the trend of public sentiment, albeit the result has been death in two of the three instances.

In view of the fact that a Kansas man has refused an appointment to the United States Senate, the Rutland Herald recalls that a Vermonter once did the same rare thing. B. F. Field of Montpelier wouldn't take such an appointment only a few years ago. However, Mr. Cullen of Kansas and Mr. Field are rare members of this honor-loving human species.

A LESSON OF THE SECOND DISTRICT FIGHT.

The recent contest for the Republican nomination for Congress from the second district of Vermont teaches one thing above all others; which is, that the ordinary man cannot attract official position to himself, as the magnet draws steel. Exceptional men—those of very rare personal qualities—may surround themselves with voters with little effort. But such are indeed rare. The average man who wishes political preferment must get out and hustle for it. If he seeks the patronage of a certain man he generally has to ask for it or get his lieutenant to ask for it. And then the certain man leans toward the supplicant, provided the candidates for the place do not tower above one another in admitted fitness. Failure to do this accounts in large measure for the lack of success of Governor Bell in the preliminary canvass for congressional honors. Starting out in good season, he was distanced by Congressman Haskins and also beaten by John W. Gordon of Barre, who entered the canvass at the eleventh hour. Personally a man to attract men's friendship by his pleasing address and manliness, there was reason why Bell should have been a strong candidate. And, in fact, that same pleasing personality would have carried him a long distance, provided it had been backed up by one or two other political weapons. Personality, as a mere isolated factor, does not count in political warfare. Past records, likewise, do not count for much more. The great reason for the falling behind of Governor Bell was the fact that he depended too largely on his personality and his good record as governor.

In contrast was the direct, aggressive canvass of the leading man in the race and the somewhat less noticeable characteristic of his next opponent, Gordon, entering the list at so late a period, had that big handicap to overcome, and, considering it, made a creditable showing. But the thing which stands out so very noticeable in the campaign of the Brattleboro man was what we may call its forehandedness, its preparedness. Political guns were placed at the outset and were ready when the game opened. Then, all through the game, while Bell was relying too much on abstract matters, Haskins had his coat off and was working like a Trojan. It remains evident that to the worker belongs the spoils in this commonplace political life of ours. Theorizing that such and such a man may be the more fit does not avail so much as the active contact of benchmen with the rank and file. And this can be said without robbing Kittridge Haskins of the credit of a surprisingly strong canvass.

EPICURE.

I ate a spring onion For breakfast today; May I have the floor, For I've something to say.

I ate a spring onion For breakfast, somehow; And, though it is midnight, I'm tasting it now.

You may sweeten and flavor The breath as you will, But the scent of the onion Will cling to it still.

—Detroit Free Press.

Fitting.

Mrs. Shopper—I wish to buy a present for a servant girl. Can you suggest something appropriate? Salesman—Certainly. Give her a traveling bag.—Judge.

Lumbago.

Lumbago is a most distressing and painful malady. Intense pain, with inability to stoop or bend the back, is experienced and severe pain in the region of what is known as the "small of the back." A strong tincture of belladonna, chloroform and alcohol is useful to relieve pain.

AN HEIR KIDNAPPED.

His Parents Warned Not to Worry Over It.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 12.—Called from the class room by the startling announcement that his mother had been injured and that she was seriously ill in a hospital, Charles F. Muth, a seven-year-old boy, was turned over to an unknown man by a messenger boy here yesterday and abducted. Although the police have made a general search of the city no trace of the missing child has been found. The boy is the son of Charles Muth, a wealthy jeweler, living at 1632 Columbia avenue.

The messenger boy in the case told the police that he was asked by a man to take a note to a school house, two squares from the Muth home. The note was addressed to the principal and requested the teacher to send the child home with the messenger. She complied with the request, and the unsuspecting messenger boy escorted the child to a nearby street corner where the man took the young boy in charge and boarded a street car. At midnight, the child's parents received a special delivery letter, informing the family that the child would be returned today and telling them not to worry, and also warning them not to stir up the neighbors or the police.

RETURNED FOR TRIAL.

Decision Received in Case of J. S. Wilkins vs. Drs. Brock and Roselle.

Burlington, June 13.—A decision of the supreme court was received yesterday by County Clerk Russell in the case of John S. Wilkins vs. Drs. W. W. Brock and L. R. Roselle of Montpelier. The judgment is that the case be returned to county court for trial. When this case was first brought up in court it was taken to the supreme court without a trial, exceptions being taken to a decision on a demurrer.

Mr. Wilkins lived in Burlington when the suit was brought and he seeks to recover damages of $10,000 for alleged malpractice in treating his wife. The case will probably be tried in September.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Marie Hall, the violinist, who recently returned to England, sums up her impressions of this country in four words, "feed water; hot hotels."

St. Andrews university of Glasgow has conferred the degree of doctor of laws on Miss Agnes Irwin, dean of Radcliffe college, Cambridge, Mass.

Olga Nethersole will quit the stage in eight years and devote her entire time to fighting tuberculosis. She recently began the study of medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Mills of Ogden, Utah, bears the unique distinction of not having drunk any water for forty-eight years. The liquid acts as a poison on her system, and she drinks sparingly of the ordinary table beverages.

Hannah Riddell, an English missionary at work among the lepers of Japan, has just received the Order of the Blue Ribbon from the emperor, and her request for better care of the lepers by the government is to be dealt with by the diet.

Mrs. George B. Wilson of West Philadelphia, Pa., is famous for her orchids the world over and is one of the few American women who go in for this especially delightful sort of collecting. She has but to hear of an unusual bulb to seek to possess it.

Mrs. Charles Goldzier of Bayonne, N. J., suggests to Mayor Garven of that city that women be employed on the police force. Mrs. Goldzier's enthusiasm on behalf of her sex is well known. She is a member of half a dozen clubs in New York, believes in the single tax idea and is prominent in equal suffrage circles.

GOWN GOSSIP.

Sleeves of the short jackets are practically all elbow length and are usually furnished with deep ruffles of lace.

Linen gowns will be accompanied by beautiful lingerie hats, linen shoes, linen parasols and lastly linen hand bags and purses. The last named are new and very attractive.

This year all wash fabrics are soft in finish and much less satiny in luster than last year's cottons and linens. The mercerizing process has been brought to a high degree of perfection, and the best of the thin materials are mercerized.

With thin gowns a foundation is very necessary, and a new lingerie piece has come into being. This is the princess underslip in lawn, taffeta and china silk. Pink, blue, yellow, mauve and white slips are to be had, well made and ready to wear.

Most of the model gowns in wash materials have princess skirts, circular or plaited, and are elaborately trimmed with lace. Waists are draped or else are covered with lace and embroidery boleros. High girdles are almost the rule.—New York Post.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

Austrian and German physicians have fixed on coffee as one of the causes of epilepsy.

If the atmosphere did not warm the earth like a blanket the temperature everywhere would be 300 degrees below zero.

The Pleiades contain six stars visible to eyes of an ordinary keenness, though twelve or fourteen have been counted in this cluster by persons of extraordinary eyesight. A two inch telescope shows about sixty stars in this cluster.

A French engineer named Otto has invented an apparatus for purifying drinking water at home. Its capacity is sixty gallons an hour, and its cost is about the same as that of an electric incandescent light. Ozon is generated, which kills all the germs in the water.

First Negro Minstrel. The first man who ever sang a negro song on the stage was an actor named Herbert. He sat in a chair before the curtain. He painted his face with black paint, burned cork being then unknown.

Temperate Persia. In Persia there are no distilleries, breweries or public houses, and native wine is the only intoxicating beverage.

Beautiful Set of Pictures.

On next Thursday evening at the opera house will be exhibited the beautiful set of pictures which were shown last week at the Columbia Theatre in Boston where they attracted large and appreciative audiences. The pictures first show the city before the disaster at a time when President Roosevelt was a guest of the city, with the massive buildings on Market street gayly decked in the national colors in honor of the occasion. The carriage containing the President is also pictured with the populace wildly waving their hats and handkerchiefs as the chief executive passes by Chinatown, the Cliff House, Seal Rock, the principal thoroughfares, City Hall, the mint and other interesting places are shown before the disaster.

The pictures of the fire are in strong contrast to these scenes of life and gaiety for the same buildings which were first seen decked in bunting are shown in flames or in ruin. It is interesting to see the dynamiting of the tall buildings to see people huddled together in the Presidio or Golden Gate Park, or hurrying to the famous North Ferry to flee the city. The last of Chinatown is shown in flames, with the frenzied Celestials flying in every direction. The bread line where the hobo and millionaire are on the same level; the looting by the ghoulies, and their just punishment by the military; the miles and miles of ruins; and relief trains; the outdoor kitchen and other equally interesting scenes are shown with a vividness that columns of newspaper space could not adequately describe.

Miss Fongore, the famous European music hall singer, has been secured as an added feature and will be heard in the songs which have made her name a household word throughout Europe.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

There are now twenty-seven standard gauge and thirty-nine narrow gauge railways in Spain.

At Simba, on the new Uganda railway, in Africa, lions killed 100 laborers while the road was being put through.

Last year there were 4,979 miles of new railway constructed in the United States as against 4,232 in 1904, 5,786 in 1903, 5,084 in 1902 and 5,222 in 1901. Prizes aggregating $7,500 for suggested improvements in connection with railway construction and service are offered by the Society of German Railway Administrations of Berlin. The latest date for communications is July 15, 1907.

ANIMAL ODDITIES.

The turbot lays 12,000,000 eggs a year, 11,000,000 more than the best hen. Bees, beavers, elephants and crows banish or put to death such members of their communities as are lazy or wicked.

The large horned beetle can carry 315 times its own weight. One has been known to walk away with a two and a quarter pound weight.

The adjutant, or marabout, a tall bird of India of the stork species, will swallow a hare or a cat whole. It stands five feet high, and the expanse of wings is nearly fifteen feet.

TALES OF CITIES.

In Cleveland there are three divorces to every five marriages.

Saco now goes into the list of Maine cities enjoying free mail delivery, the gross receipts of Saco's postoffice the past year being in excess of the required $10,000 for such privileges.

Chicago is to have the largest electric light and power station in the world. It will be a steam turbine plant, and all the boilers are to be equipped with automatic stokers, so that no manual handling of the coal will be necessary.

Texas.

Texas has been aptly denominated the Lone Star State from the appearance of a single star in the arms of that commonwealth.

Waiting to Be Called For.

Hanging to a rafter in a shop at Bourne, Lincolnshire, England, is a leg of mutton fifty years old. It was bought from the present occupier's predecessor by a gentleman who said he would call for it later on. He never did so, and there it hangs today. It has so withered that it resembles a shillalah.
